

Canoehed

paddling advice from Souris River Canoes

Issue #3

January 2010

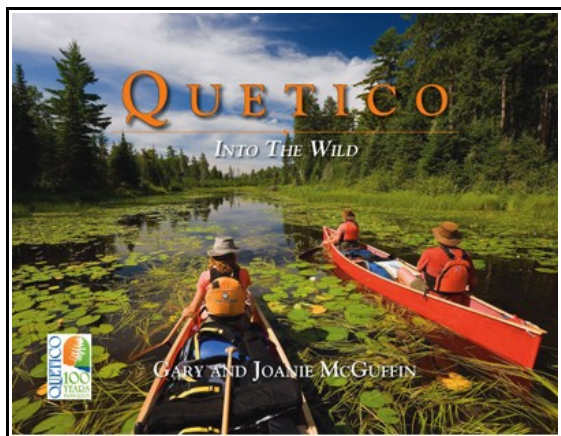

Thunder Bay's National Team Development Centre

You can't paddle all year, at least not in these parts. Come early December, our thoughts turn to cross-country skiing, another passion of many of the Souris River Canoes staff. Cross-country skiing embodies the same spirit as canoeing: moving through the wilds using your own power.

Souris River Canoes is a proud sponsor of Thunder Bay's National Team Development Centre. These young athletes may not make it to this year's Winter Olympics, but you can be sure you'll see at least some of them at the next.

For more information on the centre, check-out their website: www.ntdc-tbay.on.ca.

Quetico: Into the Wild by Gary and Joanie McGuffin

It is no accident that Souris River Canoes is located next to Quetico Provincial Park, a 4,760 sq.km. (1,800 sq.mi) area west of Lake Superior and north of Minnesota's Boundary Waters Canoe Area. Keith and Arlene Robinson (SRC owners) are pleased to support Gary and Joanie McGuffin's latest book celebrating the park's 100th anniversary.

In 130 stunning colour images, adventure photo-journalists Gary and Joanie McGuffin guide us by canoe and snowshoe through the four seasons of Quetico's wilderness. Between these pages you will discover the timeless beauty of sunsets and waterfalls, succulent blueberries, lofty pine, and wild animals - sights and sounds that can only be experienced at the speed of a paddled canoe.

You will recognize the canoes. Souris River Canoes supplied the McGuffins with canoes for the project. The magnificent photographs in this book highlight not only the beauty of the park, but that of our canoes as well.

To order a book, visit your local bookstore, or go to www.chrismar.com (click on “Chrismar Books”). If you would like to learn more about Gary and Joanie McGuffin and their other publications, visit their website: www.garyandjoaniemcguffin.com.

Keep in touch!

Have a paddling story that might suit our newsletter or our website? Let us know. We’d love to share your paddling photos as well. E-mail your material or queries to admin@sourisriver.com

Copyright © 2009 Souris River Canoes
P.O. Box 1116, 106 Reid Street
Atikokan, Ontario P0T 1C0
Phone: (807) 597-1292
Fax: (807) 597-1157
Web: www.sourisriver.com
E-mail: thefolks@sourisriver.com